

Abstract of the Disclosure

A cost effective apparatus for preparing solutions is provided. The apparatus includes a chamber which is divided 5 by a movable partition into two compartments, a dissolving solution supply line for supplying dissolving solution to a first compartment of the chamber, a solution tank, a solution preparing line connecting the solution tank and the first compartment of the chamber, a solution preparing line connecting 10 the solution tank and a second compartment of the chamber, and a transporting pump provided between the solution tank and the second compartment, and a solution transporting line for transporting the solution prepared in the solution tank and that has been transported to the second compartment to the point 15 of use. The transporting pump may alternatively be provided between the first compartment and the solution tank.